Colma Wins Three-Way 'Shoot-out'

A shootout between Broadmoor and Colma police has won top honors for Colma's shooting team.

Colma Police Chief Jim Dorris boasted that his team walked off with first and third place in the competition.

Earl Fujikawa won first place, and Ken Innocentini, won third place. Both are reserve officers.

Brisbane officer Bob Wieger won second place.

Broadmoor Police Chief Bill Beard said he will demand a rematch.

Dump to Be Closed 'At Earliest Possible Date,' Council Told

Daly City's dump at Mussel Rock will be closed "at the earliest possible date" the City Council was told Monday.

News of the closure came in the wake of a meeting between the city and the Water Quality Control Board staff.

Last week, staff members of the WQCB and Daly City met to discuss what action might be taken to head off massive landslide at the dump that could send thousands of tons of garbage tumbling into the ocean.

Earlier, there had been some talk of constructing a berm to hold back the garbage if an earthquake triggered such a disaster.

This berm would have to be several stories high and would probably cost millions of dollars.

Even then engineers would not guarantee the berm would check the slide, engineer Bill Chapman, president of KGA Engineers, told the council.

KGA Engineers and geologist John Lowney had made a study of conditions at the dump and found the entire area had slid some four inches toward the ocean last year alone.

It was decided during last week's meeting that this expensive measure would not be necessary, City Manager David Rowe informed the council during a public study session Monday.

What will be needed, however, is continued maintenance at the site, including grading of the slope above the sea wall and construction of an all-weather roadway through the dump.

According to Rowe, it was agreed by both sides in the discussion that the dump must be closed as soon as possible.

A meeting between Daly City and Pacifica officials is expected to be scheduled soon to determine that coastside city's interest, if any, in a joint agreement on construction of a transfer station — perhaps at Mussel Rock — Rowe said.

Meanwhile, the city will explore the possibility of using the transfer station at Oyster Point in South San Francisco, the Times has learned.

George Stagnaro, vice president of SSF Scavenger Company, acknowledged he had discussed the matter of Daly City temporarily using the transfer station with Daly City Scavenger Co. president Al Sereni.

'Doggy-Do Man' In D.C.?

City Attorney Albert Polonsky of Daly City said Monday he was the city's "doggy-do man" because he has vigorously pursued leash law violators in the community.

Polonsky was discussing a proposed county dog license fee increase with the council when he was complimented for the way he followed through on dog complaints in the city.

The city attorney responded: "You might say I'm the doggy-do man."

The county wants to raise dog license fees $1 and also come down harder on persons who continually violate the dog law.

As an example, four-time offenders would be hit with a $60 fine instead of the current $30 fine.

Daly City wants some of these fines to come back to the city to offset costs of legal action against leash law violators.

And if the county refuses to turn back a portion of these monies, then Polonsky and City Manager David Rowe think the San Mateo County District Attorney should hound the dog cases.

Rowe was instructed by Mayor Anthony Giammona to inform the county of its thinking on the matter.

The increase will be further discussed in public sessions at city hall, 90th and Sullivan Avenues, on Nov. 8 at 8 p.m.

Schumacher Speaks Up On Paramedic Service At Council Meeting

Although a public hearing whether to grant Medevac, Inc., an ambulance and paramedic service permit is scheduled to be held on Nov. 8 in Daly City, the council discussed the matter at some length Monday a study session.

City Atty. Albert Polonsky cautioned the council and staff not to discuss certain aspects of the issue before the public hearing.

But at least one councilman, William Schumacher, an attorney, aired his feelings on whether to allow the company to operate in Daly City at the Monday meeting.

Medevac recently won out over local companies to provide paramedical services in San Mateo.

Schumacher said, "I don't know if I want them in (the) fire house."

Medevac officials had asked the city to rent space to them inside a fire station for $250 per month.

The company agreed to assist the routine maintenance at the station and also asked to participate in training programs for firemen, City Manager David Rowe explained.

Rowe said the proposed rental price exceeded the usual amount paid for the amount of space requested.

There are two separate matters on the upcoming Nov. 8 agenda concerning Medevac.

One is a public hearing on whether to grant the company a permit to operate in the city.

Schumacher said he may want to use the city's own fire units as paramedics and, therefore, he had not made up his mind whether to allow Medevac in the city.

Councilman Al Teglia asked Rowe if the county would still charge citizens of Daly City for the Medevac service "if we did not give them permission (to operate here)?"

Rowe said the county would still charge the city.

Medevac, owned by Joe Dolphin, has operated under the company name of Dolphin Ambulance Co. in Pasadena, Los Angeles County, for many years.

The county initiated a study to upgrade local ambulance medical services to the paramedic level and selected Medevac after screening more than a dozen applicants, county officials have explained.

Some cities have not yet taken action to issue permits to the company to operate specially-equipped lifesaving ambulances.

Broadmoor Probes Fatal Shooting

A man being held in connection with the gun slaying of Joe Valencia, 29, of South San Francisco, has been released from custody for lack of evidence, Broadmoor Police Chief Bill E. Beard said.

Paul Lopez Jr., who gave police a Santa Cruz address was turned over to South Lake Tahoe police on a $3,000 felony warrant, Beard said.

"His alibi in this case (the slaying of Valencia) stood up. We are continuing our investigation," Beard said.

Lopez was picked up after he went to Sequoia Hospital in Redwood City for treatment of severe facial lacerations early Saturday morning.

Beard earlier had issued a bulletin to all Bay Area hospitals to be on the lookout for anyone requiring treatment for such injuries.

Lopez also matched the description of the gunman given to police by several witnesses to the slaying outside Palee's bar in unincorporated Colma about 1:45 a.m. Saturday.

League Bills Roll In

By RICK SULLIVAN & FRANK LA PIERRE

A review of city records in connection with the recent League of California Cities conference has disclosed that more persons than were originally reported attended the San Diego meeting and in some cases expenses surpassed advance monies given these officials.

Expense statements are beginning to trickle into city finance departments from the 114 officials of county cities who participated in the three-day conference.

It is unclear at this point what the total cost to taxpayers will be for the trip, but so far records indicate expenses are running between $200 and $500 per delegate.

It also has been learned that:

- One high-ranking city official traveled to San Diego not only to attend the conference but to be married and that she planned to bill the city for air fare.
- Some officials stayed at $12 per night motels, or shared quarters with colleagues, to save money, while others stayed in single rooms at posh hotels that charged upwards of $40 per night.
- Accountability for taxpayer money spent on the conference is rigid in some cities and lax in others.
- In a few cities, taxpayers "treated" the officials to group dinners at first-class restaurants and paid for hospitality rooms. It it also unclear at this point what the cost of these dinners and rooms will be.

Before the conference began, the San Mateo City Clerk's office reported that 16 city officials would travel to San Diego.

It was revealed Friday that an additional city staffer also attended, Bob Van Nort, administrative assistant to the police chief.

In Foster City, two more officials than were at first reported attended — City Clerk Andrea Pavone and Mayor John McCraw.

Pacifica City Atty. Gloria Scheid confirmed this week that before she journeyed to San Diego she had planned to marry during the three-day conference.

Thursday she said she attended the first day of the conference and then left to be wed "during the (Sen. Walter) Mondale speech" Tuesday evening.

She said that after the wedding, she "returned to attend the other sessions."

Although she has not as yet turned in an expense statement, the city attorney stated that she planned

SamTrans Nears Predicted Mark

San Mateo County Transit District ridership may hit the predicted 6 million mark in the first year of operation, according to quarterly figures released by SamTrans this week.

The count was 1,275,785 passengers for the first quarter of this fiscal year — July, August and September — with 768,731 paying full fare and senior citizens taking 171,745 cut-rate rides.

The district now is selling 500 special $5 monthly discount permits a month. These have accounted for 18,954 trips over that three-month period, the figures showed.

Fare box revenues totaled $217,740, some 18 per cent of the projected 1976-77 total of $1.2 million, SamTrans reported. September receipts were 10.7 per cent over August.

A one-day count of riders Sept. 22 showed San Mateo, the county's most populous city, led the list with 4,587.

South San Francisco buses carried 2,902 riders, Redwood City 2,174, Pacifica 2,045, San Bruno 1,793, East Palo Alto 1,416, Burlingame 1,343, San Carlos 1,164, Belmont 1,134, Menlo Park 1,124, Millbrae 675, Foster City 576 and Brisbane 140.

San Mateo also was the reduced-fare leader with 666 seniors and handicapped riding for 10 cents, with 359 on Burlingame buses, 27 per cent of that city's total ridership.

One-day fare box revenues on the selected day ranged from $772.90 in San Mateo to $27.50 in Brisbane.

Ridership volume seems to be accelerating since the first quarter, a spokesman said, noting that a one-day check this month showed a 38 per cent increase over the 1975-76 average in San Mateo County.

Concern For Coast Zones Touches Home

How to cope with a coastal zone such as San Mateo County has was one of the opening day discussions in Burlingame during the national convention of the American Institute of Planners.

In a meeting this past weekend of 350 planning officials at the Airport Marina Hotel on Burlingame's bayfront, in a county with miles and miles of ocean shore, the subject touched home.

"Learning to manage limited resources" was the theme for the convention of professional planners, the men and women who will guide development plans for coastal zones, who will help regulate growth of cities and who will attempt to control through zoning.

The three-day meeting included a series of workshop sessions and panels probing such subjects as coastal zones, growth regulation and how a community can go about saving energy.

Energy was one of the topics San Mateo County Congressman Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey touched on in his keynote address.

He urged the planners to do their utmost in planning for conservation of fossil fuel and electrical energy, suggesting that cities be planned so people live within walking distance of work.

McCloskey told the city and county planning officials that if Congress had had any idea of what it was getting into when it approved land use regulations a few years back, it might never have done so. The entire field is too complex, he said.

"It's nice to see a politician who understands our problems," said one professional planner after hearing the congressman describe the national government's planning agencies as "those horrible Feds."

Other speakers attempted to balance federal, state and local interests in such areas as coastal zone planning, which involves 31 states.

Hundreds of millions of dollars of federal money have been allotted for planning and management of coastal zone plans, one speaker said. He predicted there will be an emphasis on development of fuel sources such as petroleum and natural gas along the nation's beaches.

Jim Ross, an Oregon planner whose coastal zone management job may end Tuesday in his state's election to determine continuance of the coastal zone, asked "Whose coast is it?"

"The coast belongs mostly to those who live there and work," he said. "You have to make sure the state's efforts to manage the coastal resources involve the local citizens or the plans won't work."

Fred Van Atta, a home builder in Oregon, agreed with Ross to a degree, but said that "perhaps more on the coast than anywhere else, you see the ugly side of land use planning.

"On the coast we see the wealthy and the upper middle income people using legislation to protect their playground.

"You don't find the loggers, the fishermen, the farmer or the grocer in the forefront in land use planning," he said.

"These are the people who make their living there, and the ones most in opposition to coastal zone restrictions."

Van Atta, supposedly the hard-headed and insensitive businessman, ended his remarks by quoting from a Robert Frost poem about standing on the shore and looking farther and deeper into the sea.

"We have to look farther and deeper into land use planning, too" he said.

Other sessions involved energy, housing and community development, intergovernmental relations, social services, transportation and urban design.

Harold F. Wise, planning consultant and urban planning advisor to Jimmy Carter, was Friday's luncheon speaker. His talk was on "Planning for the next eight years."

to bill Pacifica for her transportation. She said she would charge nothing more to the city since she had dined and roomed with friends while in San Diego.

Expense records also have disclosed that a vast disparity in the amount of money delegates spent for accommodations.

For instance, San Bruno Councilman Gary Mondfrans styled in a single room which cost about $36 for three nights, and, San Bruno Clerk Terri Rasmussen and Millbrae City Clerk Marie MacKechnie shared a room for a three-day cost of $44.35 each.

On the other hand, Millbrae Police Chief Lawrence Rickett occupied a single room for four days at a total cost of $131.44.

And it was learned that all 21-members of the City delegation stayed in single rooms at a hotel that cost $24 per night.

Officials of most cities said they do not place a ceiling on the cost of accommodations.

Those spouses who attended the conference must pay their own way, but several city officials confirmed that the costs of a double room is not shared equally.

For instance, if the price of a room for one person is $40 and charges for a double room run say $45, then the spouse only is expected to pay the difference between the single and double room.

A review of city expense accounting procedures revealed that some cities demand from officials vouchers and a detailed explanation and actual expenses incurred on a trip. Other cities grant per diem to employes and still others ask that only a "memo" summarizing expenses be submitted for reimbursements to be made.

In Redwood City and Millbrae, for instance, expenses are approached only if statements include vouchers for accommodations and sometimes meals.

But in San Mateo, for example, reimbursements can be made if a "memo" describing the expenses is presented, according to City Manager Richard De Long. San Mateo requires no vouchers.

And in Menlo Park air fare and registration fees are pre-paid by the city. Each official attending the conference is given $50 per diem. According to Finance Director Russ Scotten, officials are not required to report how the per diem is spent.

Expense records have shown that one county city — Daly City — paid for a hospitality room. Daly City paid $512.69 for the room, rood and alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages.

It was explained that some delegates included on their expense records costs incurred by the entire delegation such as for the hospitality room.

Some city delegations also held dinner parties in San Diego.

Before the conference Millbrae City Administrator Lee Horner and members of his delegation got together for dinner Monday night, the first day of the convention.

He had told his delegates that cocktails would precede dinner at a "first-class restaurant."

Other cities held similar dinners, including "family dinners" including San Bruno, Daly City and San Mateo.

So far the only delegate to pay for the trip out of his own pocket is Tony Zidich, city treasurer of Daly City. Zidich turned in a personal check for $243.18 shortly after published reports appeared listing him as attending the three-day sessions.

"I always pay my own way to these affairs," Zidich said.

Life Term In Coast Shooting

Timothy F. O'Neil, 21, was sentenced to life in prison Tuesday for a first-degree murder conviction by Superior Court Judge Lyle R. Edson in Redwood City.

O'Neil was convicted of the offense by a jury earlier this month under the state law which holds him legally liable for participating in murder even though prosecutor Thomas Blake said O'Neil was not the triggerman.

Killed last April in Pacifica was Lee Frey, 45, of San Francisco. His alleged assailant, Lee Townsend, was shot dead hours later during a gun store holdup.

O'Neil, of San Francisco, also was sentenced to various penalties ranging from five years to life to one year for eight other offenses for which he was convicted, including two attempted Daly City robberies.

Imposition of those sentences was held in abeyance pending the outcome of an appeal on the murder charge.

Blake told jurors during the trial that O'Neil, Townsend and a third man stole Frey's car to use it in the holdup of a Daly City gun store. Townsend was shot dead, and O'Neil and Cleve Oakley of Redwood City ultimately were captured.

Trial Slated In DC Slaying

A Daly City woman who allegedly shot her husband between the eyes after finding him with another woman has been bound over to San Mateo County Superior Court for arraignment on Nov. 16 at 9 a.m.

Antoinette Maria Brown, 21, has been charged in the slaying of her husband, Edward R. Brown, 300 Citrus Ave.

Brown was shot on Aug. 31 but did not die until Oct. 11. Murder charges were filed by the district attorney's office at that time.

A continued preliminary hearing was held last week in North County Municipal Court before Judge F. J. deLarios.

The prosecution's primary witness, Laura Gray, 22, of San Francisco, had testified she was with Brown at his home when Mrs. Brown shot him.

Mrs. Gray said she and Brown had walked into the apartment and found Mrs. Brown sitting in a chair.

Mrs. Gray said Mrs. Brown then asked her husband if Mrs. Gray had been there the previous night. He denied that she had., according to the testimony.

Mrs. Gray testified that Mrs. Brown said she had found butts allegedly from Mrs. Gray's cigarettes, and then pulled out a revolver from behind her or between her legs, pointed it at her husband's head, and fired.

Mrs. Gray also testified that Mrs. Brown pointed the gun at her as she ran out onto the front steps.

at the unincorporated Colma bar.

It was learned however, that four or five Filipino males fled the scene in a lime green Pinto or Vega car.

Apparently, the gunman suffered a possible broken nose and other facial injuries during an altercation at the bar.

This was the reason Beard issued the all-points bulletin to hospitals, he said.

Burl. Joins Noise Fight

Burlingame City Council members Monday night agreed to join eight other communities in a "Noise Abatement Task Force" to seek reduction or limitation of jet noise at San Francisco International Airport.

Frustrated with years of following legal channels with little success, the Burlingame City Council agreed to "recognize and endorse" the task force as the agency of North County cities to deal with the airport at county, state and regional levels.

Serramonte High School's new Parent-Teacher-Student Association (P.T.S.A.) is underway. At the first planning meeting in September, the by-laws were adopted and the officers were elected.

The officers are President Raymond McNeil (parent); Vice Presidents Joan Dennison (parent) and Robert Foiles (student); Corresponding Secretary Geraldine Brown (parent); Recording Secretary Loretta McNeil (student); Treasurer Rod Crittenden (teacher); Parliamentarian Roland Rinne (teacher); and Historian Cheryl Moses (student).

The P.T.S.A. is off to a good start but it needs everyone's support — especially more parents. Why not plan to attend the next meeting in Serramonte's Little Theater on Nov. 10 at 7:30 p.m.

CONGRATULATIONS to Angela Tate who was honored by the Daly City Exchange Club as Serramonte student of the month for October. One student from each local high school is chosen each month. These students receive a certificate, attend an Exchange Club luncheon, and have the opportunity to compete for an Exchange Club scholarship at the end of the year.

The basis on which students are chosen ranges from academic achievement to involvement in school government. Angie is presently a varsity cheerleader, Senior class president, and a member of C.S.F.

The California Scholarship Federation (C.S.F.) is one of the most popular clubs at Serramonte High School.

Eligibility requirements for C.S.F. are that a student be a sophomore, junior, or senior enrolled full-time in an academic program at school and have at least a "10 point" grade average from the previous semester. An "A" is worth three points, a "B" is worth one point, a "C" is worth no points, and a student with a "D" or an "F" is ineligible. P.E. grades are not included for point scoring.

THE REWARDS for life membership are numerous. A life member is eligible for advanced standing in college, college entrance with honors, scholarships, a gold seal placed on transcripts sent to colleges, special note on graduation program, gold pin and gold cord worn at graduation ceremony, honored at awards assembly and graduation, and the student joins an elite group of scholars from all parts of California.

This year's C.S.F. officers are Joyce Bohosian, President; Robert Foiles, Vice President; Loretta McNeil, Secretary; and Susan Aronovsky, Treasurer. The advisor is Social Science Department Head, Michal Tugendreich.

Other members are seniors: Yolanda Allen, Gail Brown, Ken Fineman, Karen Guzman, Felix Hon, Debbie Hutton, Min Sue Kang, Janice Lewbin, Katherine Milani, Johnny Parker, Tony Ramos, Gayle Rigoni, Angela Tate, James Theis, Jean Unsworth, and David Young.

THIS WEEK IS SPIRIT WEEK. Different activities and contests are going on each day. One nice event of Spirit Week is Flower Day. Students may order carnations for 25 cents to be delivered to their friends during school. The culmination of this week of fun will be the Serramonte vs. Westmoor game, Homecoming elections, and Homecoming dance on Friday. The winners of the election will be announced at the dance.

Jeepers Share Holiday With Aphasic Children

Officer James Richardson, president of the San Francisco Jeepers, and many of the members of the organization celebrated Memorial Day weekend this year by taking a number of children from a special high school program for aphasic children on a weekend camp-out at Russian River near Monte Rio.

The four-wheelers took the kids on an adventurous trip into the mountain country to see just how exciting it can be in the rough terrain with a four-wheel-drive vehicle.

At night, Officer James Richardson and Officer Don Cubic of the Daly City Police Department and Ed Savage of the San Mateo County Sheriff's Department entertained the kids with guitar music and singing around the campfire.

The trip was quite an undertaking, with 48 adults, 17 youngsters and using four-wheel-drive vehicles.

There are many misconceptions about aphasic children. Asphasia, or dysphasia as it is sometimes known, is a handicap that interferes with written or oral expression.

This sometimes gives rise to the belief that the children are retarded. In truth, most aphasic children are above average in intelligence, and suffering from this unfortunate block to normal communication.

In this instance, the children demonstrated that participating in this rugged outdoor activity was a true adventure.

They pulled their share of the load with camp duties, and enjoyed greatly the company of the entire group. The San Francisco Jeepers had the pleasure of sharing a great weekend with some wonderful kids.

New Times at Coast Centers

All Pacific Community Centers will have new time schedules effective Nov. 1. All centers will now operate from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

All centers will be closed Nov. 11 because of the Veteran's Day holiday.

A West Point Hopeful?

"Most potential West Point candidates slip through 12 years of school without even being aware that they might be eligible," said Lt. Col. Carl A. Barnes.

Col. Barnes is seeking those potential West Pointers.

The number includes youngsters from poor families and from minority groups who feel they have no chance, he said.

"In our normal recruiting programs," he said, "we get the most obvious candidates, those youngsters who would be going to college anyway.

"We are glad to have them, and hope to attract them to West Point.

"But there are many students who are not using their full potential because they think colle9e is out of their reach.

"I have talked with numerous California parents who believe it takes a lot of money for a college education, and they don't have it. Consequently, they have not seriously planned for their children to go to college. It is an appalling waste of young people's potentials."

Col. Barnes said anyone wishing to talk to him about the possibilities of West Point and an Army career may call him at his office as West Point Liason Officer, 1299 Bayshore Highway, Suite 110, Burlingame.

Public Hearing Due on Transit

The five alternatives which the Metropolitan Transportation Commission's Peninsula Transit Alternatives Project Committee has selected for further study as possible mass transit systems for the Peninsula will be discussed at a public hearing Thursday, Nov. 4, in San Bruno.

The session is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the San Bruno City Council Chamber, 567 El Camino Real.

The alternatives being considered are:

- A slight upgrading of the present system of Southern Pacific rail and Greyhound bus service.
- Upgrading of Southern Pacific service with more trains, plus express bus service on Junipero Serra Freeway at peak hours and on Bayshore Freeway at off-peak hours, with bus shuttle service to both San Francisco International and San Jose airports.
- Development of a three-track rail corridor along the SP right-of-way to provide more frequent passenger service without interruption of freight service, plus express bus service.
- Upgrading of Southern Pacific service with more trains, plus extension of Bay Area Rapid Transit from Daly City ot San Francisco International Airport.
- Extension of BART to Millbrae through the airport and a freeway corridor express system on Bayshore and Junipero Serra freeways.

Arrived

U.S. Air Force Technical Sgt. H. S. Untalan, whose parents are retired Army Major and Mrs. Pedro Untalan of 451 Winchester St., Daly City, has arrived for duty at Andersen AFB, Guam.

Sergeant Untalan, an accountiog and finance supervisor with a unit of the Strategic Air Command, previously served at Vandenberg AFB, Calif.

'Diet and Stroke' Topic of Meeting

The Mary's Help Hospital Stroke Club will hold a meeting on Nov. 9 at 7 p.m. Leo van der Reis, M.D., will speak on "Stroke and Its Effect on Eating Habits" at the meeting which will be held in the hospital's ninth floor recreation room.

All stroke victims, their families and friends are invited to attend. The purpose of the club is to help stroke victims adjust to new life styles made necessary by a stroke.

Westlake Included In Book

Gimcrackery! Author T. H. Watkins, calls Westlake gimcrackery in his book, California an Illustrated History.

Gimcrackery — That which is made to look excellent or topnotch; that which appears capable of solving all problems; unsophisticated, audacious, eccentric! Watkins says that along with Westlake — Valencia, Lake Forest and Irvine are gimcrackery.

Yet, these places, like others that have been called gimcrackery or something similar, have been noted for the, "stimulating cross section of people that they have attracted," and for the ability of the residents to maintain the homes and shopping centers and for their green lawns, sufficient lighting, high quality police and other city services.

WATKINS says the lifestyle of the residence of the communities that these cities represent is bumptious. In them there is "that wonderful steady beat of energy." He writes, "above all, it was a lifestyle wedded to the out-of-doors — not to the wilderness or the woods particularly (although it included a great fondness for local, state, and national parklands), but to the immediate out-of-doors, that portion encountered by literally stepping out the back door on a balmy weekend afternoon."

Watkins writes that the way of life in the California suburbs could be likened to a religion of sorts with a thick, slick monthly magazine called Sunset as its bible. Such life, he says, "has to do with covered patios and swimming pools, redwood furniture, and grape-stake fences, sweet-smelling, freshly cut Sunday morning lawns and neatly clipped shrubbery and banks of brilliant unlikely flowers and plants."

"IT FINEST moment might be said to be illustrated by the picture of a man standing on his patio on a Saturday evening, a drink of good Scotch in one hand and a spatula in the other, barbecuing a few $2 steaks while his wife prepares a cool, green salad, his children cavort on the lawn with the dog . . ."

While the picture varies from one community to another, it is a way of life that in its purest physical lomforts surpassed anything man has ever before enjoyed, and for millions of Californians, who were no more given to dark, cosmic brooding than any other people, it is enough."

T. H. Watkins' California — An Illustrated History, was published in 1973 by the American West Publishing Company of Palo Alto. It is a large book that is pleasant to read and filled with hundreds of pictures.

In the last few pages of California — An Illustrated History, Watkins speaks of his fears for "The Golden State." He notes that the great demand for homes and jobs permitted unscrupulous politicians and land developers to consummate the rape of beautiful landscapes. He warns that the age of the landmovers is coming to an end, but the state is still stumbling, "quite as confused as ever."

Yet, Watkins believes that in California there is hope.

"Californians still carried the light of tomorrow in their eyes, which was only as it should have been in the land of the Sundown Sea."

California — An Illustrated History is a good book and as such should be read by many people.

TOMORROW AT 7:30 p.m., the Daly City Friends of the Library will present a special evening program featuring Cmdr. John Dale Pye Hodatt, Jr.

Members and friends of the city's library system are urged to hear Commander Hodatt speak and then to enjoy an informal coffee hour in the Community Cultural Room of the Serramonte branch of the library.

Sure to be discussed by members during the coffee hour is the success of the Membership Tea Oct. 23.

A good representation of the membership welcomed new members and prospective members and heard the music of Terri Small, Laura Velesquez and Julia McKenzie, accompanied by Dave Kaplan and John Imholz.

IT IS GIRL SCOUT Calendar time once again! The nifty, large grid type calendars with loads of room for inscribing appointments and special occasions are still selling for just $1 and all the profits are ear-marked for the support of troop services in this area with each girl receiving a credit for each calendar she sells. The credits are applied to the cost of her participation in the Scouting program. According to Mrs. James Morino, the current "share of belonging" is $25 per year, per girl. This cost is partially borne by the United Way, partially by the parents of the girl; the Scout, herself, may help defray the cost by participating in the calendar sale.

If you want to help Girl Scouting in general and/or a special scout, buy a calendar from the scout of your choice.

THE WESTLAKE Catholic Women will hold their twentieth Sodality Breakfast Sunday after the 9 a.m. Mass.

Mrs. Robert Brizuela, spiritual director of the group, has appointed Mrs. Harry Kanelopoulos chairwoman of the breakfast.

Mrs. Kanelopoulos said there is no charge for the breakfast in the parish hall, but that it is important that the committee know how many persons will be attending. Those planning to attend, should call now for reservations.

SUNDAY, LAKESIDE Presbyterian Church, San Francisco, will host another of its bicentennial celebrations at 11 a.m. with a service of worship and music, centering around the theme of the Presbyterian church's history, and continuing at noon with a display of historical memorabilia, slides of Plymouth and refreshments.

The public is invited, according to Mrs. Martha Kunstorff, bicentennial celebration chairwoman for the congregation.

TUESDAY WILL BE Covered-dish Day for the members of the Pacifica Fifty-Plus Club.

Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan reports that members will be arriving at 10 a.m. for a regular meeting, to be followed by a pot-luck luncheon and a birthday party for two of the clubs most "senior" seniors.

Mrs. Lulu Wilson who will be celebrating her one hundredth birthday and Mrs. Josephine Thompson, who admits to being well into her nineties, will be the day's special guests.

MRS. EMILY POWELL SUMRALL, president of the Balboa High School alumni, is seeking "input" from the school's grads on the Peninsula. How do you feel about a reunion type cruise?

Instead of an evening of dining and dancing, the Executive Board is considering a cruise, either to the Caribbean, Mexico or Alaska. If you find the idea interesting, make your opinion and preference known by writing to the Balboa Alumni Association, 1000 Cayuga Ave., San Francisco, Ca. 94112.

NOVEMBER 11 is the day selected for the Daly City Senior Citizens' Christmas boutique, according to Mrs. Louise Buttle, the club's recording secretary and publicity chairman.

Mrs. Buttle, along with boutique chairman Mrs. Anita Stagnaro, Mrs. Kay Robison, Mrs. Mildred Sims and other hard-working volunteers, are busy preparing the club's meeting place, the Lincoln Park Memorial Building, located at 901 Brunswick, for the influx of shoppers.

Holiday gift-seekers will find a large selection of needlework, baked goods, jewelry, "white elephants" and next-to-new clothing.

The sale will open at 10 a.m. and continue until 3 p.m. Shoppers may reach the Lincoln Park building by taking any bus to the top-of-the-hill in Daly City, walking up hill to Acton Street and proceeding up Acton to Brunswick Street — a short walk, according to Mrs. Butte.

DON'T FORGET: Tomorrow night is the Champagne Preview of Boutique de Noel, the holiday bazaar sponsored by the Mary's Help Hospital Guild.

For those unable to attend the opening, Mrs. Millie Dunow reports that the boutique will remain open until Nov. 22.

Auction Donations Sought in Pacifica

The Pacifica Youth Advisory Commission is sponsoring the Fifth Annual "Youth-in-Action Auction." The auction will be televised live on Cable Channel 8 Dec. 1, 2 and 3.

Through the donations of merchants and citizens, the last two auctions have raised approximately $2,000 each. This money funded a successful Summer Jobs for Youth project through the Community Beautification Program. With the money raised from this year's auction, these programs will continue. A permanent Youth Recreation Center in Pacifica is also a goal.

Members of the Y.A.C. will be in touch with local merchants within the next two weeks.

Merchants who wish additional information about the Youth in Action Auction can contact Don Cadman, Recreation Supervisor, at the Pacifica Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department office.

Shopping Center Stalled

Developer Tom Callan has refused to go along with the South San Francisco Planning Commission's request that he develop his Gellert Boulevard shopping center as a Planned Unit Development (PUD).

His decision marks just another rift between Callan and city officials who think there ought to be more control over the development — the largest shopping center ever proposed in South San Francisco.

Callan's latest stand means that there is no assurance the proposed 13 stores, restaurants and office buildings will be developed as a single cohesive project.

The commission — fearing that Callan's project may be developed in a haphazard fashion — had written to Callan expressing its view.

A PUD zone would require that the buildings be presented as a single design.

But the commission's hands are tied. It can't force Callan to agree to any type of zoning and Callan has made it quite clear he doesn't like the PUD idea.

Callan, however, said he wants a project that wil be an income source for years to come.

"My concern is to put something in there that's not going to fail," Callan said. "We want something that we are both going to be proud of."

Fleeing Vehicle Explodes

A high-speed chase along Highway 1 early last week ended when a car occupied by two San Francisco youths crashed into a tree and exploded.

The youths, both juveniles whom police would not identify, got out of the car before the explosion. They are being treated at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City.

According to the California Highway Patrol, officers signaled for the car to pull over for a routine traffic check on the Coastside highway in Pacifica at 1 a.m.

The car sped away from officers north on Highway 1 at a high rate of speed.

The driver lost control of his vehicle as it entered Daly City and it hit a tree, police said.

The two juveniles escaped from the burning vehicle and staggered across the highway. One of the youths slipped and tumbled down an embankment and became trapped between two trees.

Firemen were called to rescue the boy.

Teachers Pay Plan Called 'Ludicrous'

By JANET PARKER

South San Francisco taxpayers called a contract proposal for 1976-77 by the teachers "laughable" and "ludicrous."

In particular, they pointed to the $11.4 million cost estimated by district controller Paul Zink.

It was a rude introduction Wednesday night for the South San Francisco Classroom Teachers Association to new collective bargaining procedures covering California's public school districts.

The next step is presentation of the board's counterproposal, to be followed by a second public hearing.

The teachers' proposal includes an 11.1 per cent salary increase, paid vacations, reduced class sizes, payment for extracurricular duties and many other items in a 143-page package.

SSFCTA president John Heron said he could not respond to statements by parents and other community members because the matter is a negotiable issue.

Speakers warned the Board of Trustees several times that it had better not seek another revenue limit increase from taxpayers through a ballot proposition.

Proposition C, which raised the income per pupil $95 in 1975, was narrowly passed. It was defeated the year before.

"I hope you realize there's not going to be another Proposition C," resident Morton Herman said.

"Give us a little more credit than that," Board president Tom Henkle responded.

Resident John Falsarella said that the $11.4 million estimate attached to the proposal by the district shows the unreasonable attitude of the teachers.

He said the SSFCTA — an affiliate of the California Teachers Association — is asking for everything it can get so it can compete with the American Federation of Teachers for the most strength in the state.

"I do not want South San Francisco to be a scapegoat in a battle between the AFT and the CTA to see which one gets the most for teachers," Falsgrella said.

Another parent, Marge Blank, said many of the items in the proposal are not even negotiable matters.

"It not only appears the teachers are asking for the moon but they want the universe thrown in for good measure," Mrs. Blank said. "I cannot understand why they want to bankrupt the district."

Thomas Fee said teachers should have realized when they entered the profession that it would take many hours over and above class time to accomplish heir job.

"They knowingly undertook this task when they entered the profession," Fee said. "We shouldn't get sympathetic about it."

One person the SSFCTA was not expecting to hear from was Don Richards, director of classified personnel.

He said he was very concerned about items in the SSFCTA's proposal that involve classified personnel, including hiring, firing, staffing and assignments.

Included are proposals under "working conditions" which involve the maintenance and repair of equipment and supplies — tasks handled by classified personnel.

"It sets up an adversary relationship when a labor organization will set up and deliberately try to negotiate 40 to 50 per cent of this district's personnel who are in another organization," Richards said.

One parent, Carmen Dostie, said the district ought to show more support for its teachers. In particular, she said, the Children's Center instructors are underpaid after attending years of college for an education.

The next steps in the collective bargaining process are the presentation of the district's counter proposal on Nov. 10 and a public hearing on Nov. 24.

Baccicocco Takes Board To Task on Task Force

An undercurrent of differences between San Mateo County Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco Jr., and a majority of other board members flared into the open when Bacciocco attempted to have the County Task Force on Governmental Operations study the troubled Financial Management System (FMS).

When Bacciocco brought up the matter, Board Chairman William H. Royer pointed out it had been agreed the task force would be finishing up programs it had started and would not take on any new obligations pending an evaluation following the appointment of a new county manager early next year.

Furthermore, the chairman said a consultant has been making changes and training personnel in the FMS.

Director of General Services Henry P. Tarratt, under whose department the FMS is operated through the Electronic Data Processing Division, said he has "no problem" in working with the task force.

At the moment, however, he said he is in the throes of integrating three other activities . . . and "it would be inappropriate for the task force to dive in at this time."

Bacciocco responded, "This seems to be defensive rhetoric. We're telling the task force to keep off the grass, saying this to qualified citizens.

"The task force has not retarded progress . . . I don't see why this is a hot wire."

Royer, noting that Bacciocco was not present when the board agreed to appoint a consultant for the FMS program at a ceiling of $20,000, said the consultant has made "great progress."

"We're not trying to keep anything from the public," Royer went on.

He further stated that he had received a report from County Manager M. D. Tarshes concerning progress in the FMS program.

"I'm doing my homework," Royer told Bacciocco. "We're doing fine."

"Then why not have it reviewed by the task force and receive their compliments?" asked Bacciocco.

"The task force is not hired to give us compliments," Royer snapped. "They are to help us with problems."

Tarshes said the situation is "simply a matter of timing. Now is the wrong time for the task force. It is not 'keep off the grass'."

Tarshes said the consultant was hired when problems developed with implementation of the FMS. There was a need to straighten out operational problems and to give staff training, he added.

"We've made great progress," Tarshes went on. "We're producing information accurately. This takes a lot of staff time, six to eight weeks of training in addition to their other duties. We're going to have people tripping over each other if we have another group step in."

Supervisor John Ward said it should be left up to the department head when to ask the task force in.

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald likened the situation to "cleaning your house and asking someone to inspect it before it's clean."

Bacciocco didn't give up.

"Something looms larger, underlying the discussion," he charged, "the question that the task force could not better serve the county than consultants at tremendous costs."

"I'm disturbed at those kind of remarks," Royer replied. "It's unfair to imply to the public that the board is afraid or hiding something."

Royer went on to say that he wants to be sure that the task force reviews the consultant's work when the project if completed, but does not interfere.

Tarshes said members of the task force are welcome to meet with him and to review the contract with the consultant and the background of the FMS problem.

The board agreed that the task force should review the program when it is completed.

Planner-Analysts To Work on Services

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has voted to accept a $45,000 federal grant to help finance development of a planning program for all social service allocations in the county.

In a report to the board, County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett said five planner-analysts will attempt to develop the foundation for a working partnership between the county, various city governments, the United Way and county-based private foundations.

The project staff will negotiate and manage the social service revenue sharing contracts and attempt to create closer interagency collaboration and coordination at the service provider level, Pickett reported.

The ultimate goal, which can be achieved within two or three years, is to produce a single shared planning environment in which all social service resource allocations can be considered, he said.

If and when this is achieved, Pickett related, any countywide citizen group, as well as the board, would be able to address funding as a totality rather than, as at present, having to look at small fractions of it.

The funding grant, to which the county is adding $15,000 in revenue sharing funds, extends through June 30, 1977.

Board Chairman William H. Royer warned, however, that if the federal funding is not renewed it will be necessary to re-evaluate the program's priority, with the possibility of terminating it.

Dr. Howard Guerevitz, director of programs for the Department of Health and Welfare, said the five persons who will be hired on an unclassified bases to undertake development of the plan are aware of that prospect and "are going in with their eyes open."

Competition at 4 Area Art Galleries

Artists interested in displaying their achievements in the four galleries operated by the San Mateo County Arts Council during 1977 may compete in a Nov. 18 jurying.

According to gallery coordinator Marion Mendelson, entries will be accepted Nov. 16 and 17, and will be returned to Nov. 19 and 20.

Any type of portfolio may be submitted, she said, slides, photos, or original work.

Water Needs Discussion

Choices available in meeting future San Mateo County water needs will be discussed in a one-day workshop Jan. 9 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Skyline College, San Bruno. Eight organizations are sponsoring the session.

San Bruno, Too, May Start Own Paramedic Program

San Bruno may join its neighbor, South San Francisco, in establishing its own paramedic service program, separate from one approved by the County Board of Supervisors and ready to get under way beginning Dec. 1.

The City Council decided last week to study what the city will be provided under the county plan to be operated by Medevac and what it would cost San Bruno to start its own emergency service program.

The decision followed some three hours of discussion by San Bruno fire fighters, a representative of the South San Francisco Fire Department, officials of the County Health and Welfare Department and of Medivac, Inc., the Los Angeles-based emergency services firm which is scheduled to provide paramedic service to the entire county.

It is expected that the San Bruno city staff will report to the council estimated costs of initiating service and ongoing costs of maintaining it in future years.

Battalion Chief Jack Ehle of South San Francisco told the San Bruno council it cost his city almost $66,000 to launch a paramedic service program. He said the figure would have been higher if Kaiser Hospital and the county had not donated funds to pay for equipment.

Chief Ehle said $57,000 has been budgeted this fiscal year to operate the program.

South San Francisco paramedics are specially trained fire fighters who provide emergency care anywhere within the city limits. Private ambulances are called to transport patioents to the hospital. A paramedic rides with the patient in the ambulance.

Barry Franchi, a San Bruno fireman, who along with Richard Havens developed a paramedic plan for the city, told the council he believes fire fighters are best qualified to provide emergency care, since they already perform some paramedic service. Firemen spend much of their time on rescue and resuscitator calls.

Franchi estimated that the city would need no additional personnel to provide paramedic service, and said he calculated a savings of $16,000 a year if the city chooses not to join the county program and starts its own.

"The people of San Bruno will get better service at little or no cost (with a city-run program)," Franchi said. "Give us a chance to provide the citizens of San Bruno the best service available."

Supervisor James Fitzgerald appeared briefly before the council to tout the county-approved program. He called it "probably one of the best emergency plans in the nation."

Earlier this year, the county contracted with Medevac to offer paramedic service to all cities and unincorporated areas. Medevac attendants will both treat patients at the scene and transport them to a hospital.

Michael Eliastam, director of emergency care at Stanford Medical Center, advised that a city with a population of about 40,000 should be cautious about starting its own program.

He said small cities average only about 2.5 calls a day — not enough to provide the paramedics with the experience they need to be effective.

SSF School District Plans Sale of Land

The sale of 16 acres of land for at least $1,050,000 has been slated by the South San Francisco Unified School District.

The Board of Trustees is expected to approve legal advertising to sell bids for the property on Nov. 10.

Income from the sale, according to Associate Supt. Joe Smith, has been earmarked by the board for capital outlay items — including repair, maintenance and purchase of equipment for the district.

"The board has a backlog of over $2 million in capital outlay requests that we've been unable to meet," Smith said.

The property is located on Gellert Boulevard between Junipero Serra and Skyline boulevards.

Although the property is located in the city of Daly City it is owned by the SSFUSD.

The land was purchased in the 1960s with the intent of building a fifth junior high school for the 21-school district.

However, in recent years, Smith said, the district's junior high enrollment has been dropping to the point that a fifth campus is not expected to be needed in the near future.

Smith said the property will be up for sale by December. The district will not accept bids lower than $1,050,000.

The board, Smith said, has determined that it prefers to use the revenue obtained from the sale for one-time expenditures — items that will not require future appropriations to maintain.

He said that suggestions for use of the money will be accepted from the union representing district employes — the California School Employes Association and the Classroom Teachers Association.

Wednesday night the board affirmed Smith's stand that the money obtained from the property sale will go into a capital outlay fund.

Several taxpayers questioned if the board has any intention of applying its revenue from property sale in the same manner as the City Council has done.

The council voted in August to balance its $9 million budget by selling $175,000 in property.

Board President Tom Henkle said that move was "fiscal irresponsibility."

THE WAY IT WAS

Although the cash register is now a bit more modern than the one shown above when this picture was taken in 1957, the faces and everything else will be the same as Dave Rasmussen (left) and George McCaman have returned to The Shadows. Charlie McFadden, new owner of this downtown San Mateo restaurant (he also owns the Bit of England in Burlingame), is even bringing back the legendary Bill Mills as the supervising chef. The Shadows will close down for a few days, and reopen for business as usual on November 10.

Pie That's Good for You!

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

It's not often you find a pie as good for you as this main dish one! Only nature's very best and most wholesome foods like, nutritious wheat germ, vegetables and dairy products are to be found in this tasty and new recipe.

The golden, custardlike character of the filling comes from cream cheese, half and half, parmesan cheese and eggs. Add to this the tiny flakes of wheat germ, chopped spinach, onion and mushrooms, season with herbs, and the result is a wonderfully satisfying and savory entree. The pastry shell repeats the wheat germ and marjoram flavors of the filling. The crumbly mixture is just the right consistency to press into a pie plate with fingertips expertise.

After baking, the filling is slightly firm but still moist and light, and the crust is toasty brown and nicely textured. Add a good looking garnish of fresh mushroom slices and onion rings and pass dairy sour cream to spoon on ad lib. Serve piping hot for a delicious brunch or supper entree.

TOASTED WHEAT GERM SPINACH PIE

1 (10-ounce) package frozen chopped spinach
1½ cups half and half
¼ cup grated parmesan cheese
2 eggs
½ cup vacuum packed toasted wheat germ
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon tarragon leaves, crushed
½ teaspoon marjoram leaves, crushed
1 onion, chopped
¼ pound mushrooms, chopped
2 Tablespoons butter
Wheat germ shell

Thaw package spinach and squeeze dry. Beat the three ounces softened cream cheese adding 1½ cups half and half gradually. Stir in the fourth cup parmesan cheese, two eggs, spinach, half cup wheat germ, one teaspoon salt, half teaspoon each tarragon and marjoram. Saute the chopped onion and fourth pound mushrooms in two tablespoons butter. Add to spinach mixture. Turn into wheat germ shell. Bake 375-degree oven 35 to 40 Bake 375 to 400 degree oven 35 to 40 minutes or until set in center.

Makes 6 servings

WHEAT GERM SHELL

1 cup flour
¼ cup toasted wheat germ
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon marjoram
¼ cup butter
1 egg yolk
2 to 3 tablespoons water

Mix the one cup flour, fourth cup wheat germ, fourth teaspoon salt and half teaspoon marjoram. Cut in fourth cup butter. Stir in one egg yolk and 2 to 3 tablespoons water to get crumbly mixture. Press into 9-inch pie plate. Pinch edges to form rim.

Le Pacini

(Second in a series on Babe Herman, the legendary Dodger goof-off. Last week the question was posed, was Herman really a bad baserunner?)

Says Babe in his defense: "In 1929 I had 19 stolen bases on the 4th of July, leading the league. Then I pulled a leg muscle, and Robbie tells me, 'Babe, you're finished stealing bases this year. Just concentrate on hitting.'

So I did. I hit .381 and 21 homers and 113 RBI and 105 runs scored, but I only stole two more bases, and Frisch leads the league with 24. It took him that long to catch up to me. Not only that, Frankie tries to steal third base twice that year against us with the bags loaded, something I'm supposed to do, which I never did, but when Frisch does it, it doesn't get in the newspapers, and Billy Southworth, the manager, tells Frankie, 'Shake it off, Frankie, it would have been a good play if it worked.' "

HERMAN ALSO RECONCILES the now legendary three-men-on-third-base story. "That's another thing that never really happened, at least not the way it was supposed to have happened. To this day, there's a lot of confusion on that play. There have been all kinds of versions. For example, Grimm, who didn't even see it, said all three of us slid into third, and I... there were runners stacked up like cordwood.

"For three days after it happened, newspapers around New York and especially in Brooklyn, were writing their own versions of it. Not one paper had it right, even then, when it was fresh news.

"One paper said I had tripled into a triple play, which was stupid, because there was already one out in that inning. Another one said I had tripled into a double play. But heck, I hadn't tripled. I had doubled. I was out at third.

"Now the thing was, a lot of guys before me had doubled into double plays, which is what I had done, so it wasn't news, and they decided to make it three men on third to get a story out of it, you see?

"Now here's what really happened. The bags were loaded with one out, and the score tied with Boston, 5-5. I hit a frozen rope about two feet from the top of the cement fence. The ball bounced back almost to the infield. The second baseman ran out and retrieved the ball and threw to second, and I slid under the tag. Hank DeBerry, who had been on third, scored, and Dazzy Vance, on second, had started to tag up.

But he didn't have to with only one away. He could have gone halfway and if the ball was clear, go home. I asked Daz later why he did that and he said, 'I don't know. I got mixed up.' Now in the meanwhile, Chick Fewster, who had been on first, goes to third, but I figured he was about to score, because as I'm on the ground I look over my shoulder and there's a baserunner about eight feet from home plate. I never figured it would be Vance, so it had to be Fewster.

Now, what had happened, Vance had rounded third and gone home — had he kept running, I think he would have scored — but anyway, that was Vance near home, and he stops! They whip the ball home and the catcher just holds it and Vance starts to trot back to third.

Now, remember, I still think Vance is Fewster, and my job is to advance as far as I can on a rundown, so I get up and head for third and slide in, and I look up and Fewster is still there, and here comes Vance!

But here's what I mean about us not all sliding into third at the same time. Fewster never did slide. He's standing. He jumps over my feet and I'm called out for passing a runner. Which is very technical. Which I tell Moran, the umpire. 'It's very technical,' I tell him, 'But I think you're right.'

"SO NOW I'M OUT and I'm headed back to the bench, and Chick's running back with me. I don't know where Dazzy is, and Chick says, 'I guess I'm out, too.' Neither one of us knew, because everybody had ignored Chick. But we figured there had to be two outs somewhere in there, and the inning's over. So now Chick is headed out to second base to pick up his glove.

During this time, the Braves' second baseman, Doc Gautreau, is over at third base talking to Moran, and Moran has his hat off scratching his head, and he's saying, 'Wait a minute, now, wait a minute.' He couldn't figure it out.

Now Gautreau gets the ball back and starts tagging everybody, but he can't find Chick, because Chick's out at second base, and then Gautreau spots him and walks out like he's going to throw his glove out to the outfield in back of Chick, and when he gets about five feet from Chick, he waves the ball at him and says, 'Look what I got,' and tags him. Moran hollers, 'Fewsters, you're out,' and Chick says, 'Hell, I thought I was out 10 minutes ago,' and that's about the simplest way I could explain what happened.

"Now I'll tell you something else. For years nobody ever said a thing about the third base coach, who is supposed to handle all the traffic down there, and I always sort of blamed Joe Kelley, our third base coach that year, for all the confusion, but then years later, when I was scouting for Pittsburgh, we're having an organization meeting, and somebody is tellin' the story and gets it gummed up, and Branch Rickey says, 'Babe, why don't you tell 'em the story,' and Mickey O'Neil, who was a reserve catcher for us that year, pipes up and says, 'Wait a minute, let me tell it. I was the third base coach.' So Mickey says, 'Yeh, we weren't getting any runs, so I said, I'll get some runs, Robby. So I went to third for that one inning.'

"And you know something else? Not one version of the story ever heard or saw printed, mentioned that I knocked in the winning run with the double-doubleplay."

NPL Football Roundup

EC, Rams, HMB Stay Knotted

By JOHN MURPHY
Post Correspondent

For one glorious week five football teams shared first place in the unpredictable North Peninsula League race. Two of those clubs bit the dust Friday afternoon while El Camino, Westmoor and Half Moon Bay managed to stay stop the league standings with identical 3-1 marks.

HMB put a dent in Serramonte's title hopes by handing the host Regesnts their second league loss, 7-6. In other NPL games Westmoor dropped visiting Terra Nova 33-14, host El Camino pounded Jefferson 34-14 and Oceana beat South San Francisco 30-13 under the lights at Clifford Field.

Terra Nova-Westmoor

For the second week in a row the option running of Westmoor quarterback Jack Dorn was shut down.

Last weekend Dorn was held to 33 yards rushing by an aggressive El Camino defense in a 14-13 Colt victory. Friday Westmoor's QB carried eight times for minus 9 yards.

Terra Nova, though, was not nearly as effective as Camino in defensing Dorn's passing game. He threw for three touchdowns in a surprisingly easy Ram win.

Dorn completed nine of 14 passes for 138 yards. He connected on two second-quarter TD strikes to lift the Rams to a 20-7 lead. Mike McLennan's two-yard run just before the end of the half gave Westmoor a comfortable 27-7 advantage.

Elva Warner's 11-yard TD reception with six minutes remaining in the third quarter iced the game for the Rams.

McLennan led all ground-gainers with 98 yards on 17 carries. He also caught a 14-yard scoring pass from Dorn.

Tight end Brian Michelson led Westmoor's receiver corps with five catches for 67 yards. John Smith and Steve Chudzinski also had TD receptions for the Rams.

Terra Nova's Daryl Fazzio completed seven of 15 passes for 119 yards and one TD (a 90-yard bomb to Eddie Pulanco). Westmoor outgained the Tigers 271-160.

Jeff-El Camino

Two crucial first-half errors provided El Camino with enough impetous for this important Colt victory.

Camino was holding on to a precarious 14-8 second quarter lead when Jeff drove from its own 40 down to the Colt one yard line. However, Camino defensive back Jim Nishida (who had already caught a 16-yard TD pass from Al Kern in the first period) pounced on a fumble at the one and it was a piece of cake from there for the Colts.

Rick Grech forced the other key Jeff mistake when he blocked a punt deep in Indian territory just before the end of the half. Bob Marquez caught the ball on the 10 and coasted in to make it 21-7 at the half.

Halfback Dennis Cowen picked up 133 yards on 25 carries and scored two touchdowns to pace the Colts. Chuck Reed led Jeff with 127 yards on 12 attempts. Camino led Jeff in total offense 350 to 204.

Oceana-SSF

Oceana halfback Denis Murray was simply too much for South City to handle as the Sharks captured their first league game — in addition to beating the Warriors for the first time ever.

All Murray did was personally account for 273 total yards and one touchdown. He accumulated 158 yards rushing on 27 carries and caught five aerials for 115 yards.

Murray got behind Warrior defenders and grabbed a 51-yard TD pass from Dan Lee in the second period to bring the Sharks back from a 13-3 deficit.

Murray's rushing and pass receiving spurred Oceana to two more second half scoring drives as the Sharks took command on successive TD runs by Randy Swayne.

Greg Piccolotti closed out the scoring with less than a minute remaining in the game when he fell on a Warrior fumble in the end zone to increase the final margin of victory.

Oceana dominated the line of scrimmage, outgaining SSF 271 to 91 on the ground and 391 to 156 overall. Halfback Dave Palmer topped the Warriors in rushing 82 yards on 15 carries and one TD.

HMB-Serramonte

Two key blocks — of a punt and of an extra point attempt — kept the Cougars in the title race.

Midway through the second quarter several Cougars swarmed over Regent punter Darryl Jones, blocking the kick and recovering on the Serramonte 17.

HMB went to running back Pete Welty three times to cover the distance; he scored from three yards out. Grant Campbell's conversion kick provided the eventual winning margin.

Serramonte moved well everywhere except into the end zone. Regent quarterback Dan Lara didn't get much protection for a while. He was sacked six times.

Finally, given time to throw, Lara connected three straight times on passes to Kern Herbert. Those tosses and a face-mask penalty against HMB moved the ball to the Cougar 11. Ron Gibson eventually scored from the two.

HMB's Don Fuller burst through to block the PAT try, saving the Cougars.

Serramonte continued to move the ball — and continued to come up short. A 63-yard drive stalled on the HMB 16, and a 33-yard field goal attempt was just short. On another drive Lara was sacked twice.

The Regents dominated everywhere except the scoreboard, outgaining HMB 264-64 and out-first downing the Cougars 16-4. Lara was 10 of 23 for 150 yards through the air; Herbert caught six passes for 95 yards. Gibson and Jones combined for 145 yards on the ground.

Dispute Over Flag On Jail

A flap has developed over flying the American flag at half staff over the San Francisco County Jail in San Bruno each time an inmate dies.

Thursday, Sgt. Jeremiah Murphy was ordered by his superior, Undersheriff James Denman, to explain in writing why the sergeant had refused Denman's order to lower "Old Glory" to half staff following the death of an inmate.

Denman reportedly had ordered the flag displayed in mourning on the death of all inmates — regardless of who they were.

But Murphy said he felt such a gesture would be disrespectful" to the flag. He told of having lowered the flag over San Quentin on the death of a guard killed in the line of duty. Murphy worked there prior to coming to San Bruno.

His superiors at the state prison ordered him to raise the flag and not display it at half staff in such cases.

Denman, on the other hand, said he feels the flag should be lowered as "a sign of grief for (Larry Davis) or anyone else."

He said he will issue similar orders on the death of anyone else in custody.

Davis, a diabetic, died Wednesday after being taken to Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City.

The inmate was found unconscious in his cell last Sunday. He was serving a one-year sentence at the county jail on burglary and car theft charges.

Sen. Gregorio to Head Health Program Study

A hearing Nov. 8 of the State Senate Health and Welfare Committee on the Child Health and Disability Prevention Program should determine why the program has not made its goal, Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, and chairman of the committee, said today.

The hearing, opening at 9:30 a.m. in the Conference Room of the Sacramento City Housing and Redevelopment Agency, 630 I St., Sacramento, will seek to determine why all children up to 6 years old, and all Medi Cal eligible children up to 21 have not been screened for potential phyically and mentally disabling conditions, he said.

Gregorio said the hearing will determine the present status of the program, major barriers in implementing it, and policy or administrative changes needed.

Physicians, county directors, school health directors, state administrators and consumers are expected to testify.

LUCKY GUESS

Dr. Judith Mates, Marlene Espinoza and Jean Wood (left to right) try to get some lucky "vibrations" from tickets that will be used in a drawing Nov. 26 for a portable color television. It and other prizes were donated by Daly City merchants to benefit Our Lady of Guadalupe Health Center, which wants to buy a van to transport patients. The center is at 75 Wellington Ave. and is open from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays. For information, call the center.

Agent Not Yet Chosen

A sole bargaining agent for teachers in the San Mateo County Community College District probably won't be determined until sometime in early 1977.

It is then that the state's new Educational Employment Relations Board is expected to begin ruling on jurisdictional disputes among rival employe organizations.

The local teachers' case has been referred to the EERB because the California Teachers Association and the American Federation of Teachers both claim that a majority of teachers in the district want to be represented by them.

The district itself has rejected both claims, saying that neither ought to include part-time instructors in itsnumbers. The total number of teachers involved is more than 1,200, more than half of them part-time individuals who teach in the evening division.

The EERB was established by the state to adjudicate such disputes. All of this is a result of the passage of a new collective bargaining law earlier this year.

The EERB is going to hold hearings, beginning this winter, on a variety of cases similar to this district's.

There is a possibility that hearings will not have to be held here since rulings applicable to San Mateo's case are expected before San Mateo's case comes up for hearings in 1977.

District trustees met Wednesday evening at Canada College in Redwood City. Included in their work were:

- Approval of an agreement to transport handicapped students at the district's three schools.
- A progress report on the district's efforts to establish an educational information system.
- Approval of the destructi on of obsolete records, called "paperwork management."

Western Decay Topic

Col. John Regan, USAF (ret.) will discuss whether western society is actually decaying as Russian writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn claims at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 17 at Skyline College, San Bruno.

Fee for the program is $1.50, with students and senior citizens admitted for $1.

By JANET PARKER

You won't see students with their eyes glued to textbooks in Judy Brown's first grade class.

Nor will you see fidgety children confined to their desks and yearning for the recess that never seems to come.

Chances are visitors to Mrs. Brown's South San Francisco classroom will see excited six-year-olds doing things their parents never dreamed of.

"The children love her and the parents love her," said Ponderosa School principal Dr. Lenore Jacobsen. "But that doesn't mean she sits and smiles all day with the kids. She's a hard worker."

Judith J. Brown, 32, of San Mateo, became something of a celebrity last week.

Mrs. Brown was named San Mateo County's Teacher of the Year by a committee of the county Office of Education.

She will compete with other county nominees for state honors. Those selected at the state level go on to compete for national recognition.

She's hoping to be at least a finalist within the state because it involves an interview with state Supt. of Schools Wilson Riles, an educator she admires.

The county committee pointed to her knowledge in the field of Early Childhood Education as one reason she was awarded the honor.

ECE involves volunteer and paid aides — most of these parents — working side-by-side with the teacher in the classroom.

"The classroom is no longer just one teacher's responsibility," Mrs. Brown told The Times. She sees the primary school teacher today as the manager of many adults who work with children in a class.

Mrs. Brown recalls that when ECE began, she was slightly intimidated by the thought of parents working with children in her domain — her classroom.

"She encourages them (the children) to be creative and she is creative, Jacobsen said. "The same thing isn't always going on in her class. If she senses a little restlessness, she's quick to change the program."

Mrs. Brown, she said, was one of the first primary school teachers to cook in the classrooms.

One day, she said, she was invited to Room 6 for a pancake breakfast. The first graders were reading instructions and measuring the ingredients at several cooking stations. At the last station was a mother with an electric skillet helping them pour the batter and turn the flapjacks.

"Half of them were raw in the middle and they tasted great," Jacobsen said.

Recently she walked in on the class to find the children giving campaign speeches for their favorite presidential candidates. Taking turns, children hopped onto a bench and told why people should vote for Carter or Ford, reasons ranging from the possibility of [illegible] better birthday parties to more pet animals for children.

On Monday, Mrs. Brown gave each of the children a hunk of clay and a bowl of water. Their assignment? Make the clay into a boat that floats.

"We need to give them structure," Mrs. Brown said. "You need to know where you are going."

However, structure in her eyes also means giving the children the freedom to learn at their own pace.

Charts in the back of her room exemplify that theory. One, labeled "I can count to 50," is signed by first graders who have accomplished that task. On another, each student's name is followed by a star for such accomplishments as learning letter names and vowel sounds.

Mrs. Brown, a native San Matean, graduated from San Mateo High School, College of San Mateo and San Jose State University.

She began as a substitute for the South San Francisco Unified School District and was hired to teach kindergarten in 1966.

She's the co-author of "Alphaphonics," a unique text to help kindergarten teachers teach their children the alphabet and to read. It's now used by more than 2,000 teachers in 25 states.

"Once we started creating the program, it snowballed," she said. "Our expectations were raised tremendously."

"We were so excited. We realized the children were ready to read even though we didn't plan on them learning to read," she said.

She said she and her co-authors, Gretchen Ross and Jeanne Stout, pleaded with the district to provide them with readers for the youngsters but the district originally insisted the kindergarteners were too young.

After several weeks of scrounging up texts, they got the official approval of the district office. By the end of the year, two boys had read 105 books each.

"Alphaphonics" has since been named one of the 12 most outstanding reading programs in the country by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mrs. Brown says a good teacher must be concerned about all aspects of children.

If a child is lacking in self-confidence, it might be for a simple reason such as an inability to tie his shoes. Unless a teacher looks at all aspects of the child, that problem is likely to go undiscovered.

"When I started teaching, I was nowhere near where I am today," she said. "I've been lucky all my life to be surrounded by people who care about me."

Single Item Pricing

Lucky takes the guesswork out of shopping with Single Item Pricing. Some supermarkets practice multiple item pricing, offering items at 3 for 89¢ or 4 for 99¢. This practice encourages larger sales and often encourages shoppers to buy more of an item than they might want or need . . . not to mention the confusion of determining what a single unit might cost.

Lucky's Single Item Pricing is clear, simple and honest: One item . . . one price! Further, the same savings are evident in the purchase of one can as they are with a multiple purchase.

SSF Tries to Stifle Water Quality Battle

South San Francisco's marina may be in hot water with the regional Water Quality Control Board.

City officials met with WQCB staff Oct. 22 in hopes of convincing Executive Director Fred Dierker that he should not pursue legal action against the city over alleged water pollution problems at Oyster Point.

A recommendation for the WCBQ was expected shortly.

At issue is a soil problem around the entire perimeter of the 50-acre marina.

Dierker said South San Francisco has failed to comply fully with a court injunction issued by the WQCB in 1974.

The order demanded that the city clean up the area around the marina, in particular soil coming into the Bay from the area around the beach and harbor, a problem called leaching.

The WQCB staff recently renewed its concern and warned South San Francisco that if it does not comply it could face contempt of court action for ailure to comply with the injunction.

Dierker said he also could recommend that the board take no action against the city if it appears sufficient progress in cleaning up the marina is being made.

It's the second time in recent months South San Francisco has faced stern action by the WQCB staff.

The city's sludge treatment facility off South Airport Boulevard also is being inspected carefully by WQCB engineers. The agency claims that rice hulls used by Tillo Products Co. to turn sewage sludge into a soil conditioner are blowing into the Bay. A decision by WQCB about that is pending.

Dierker said the terms of the 1974 injunction are not being strictly complied with and that his staff may ask for some interim improvements.

A major concern of the city is the fate of the $5 million marina expansion project scheduled to get underway next year.

City Engineer Bob Yee said the marina expension is largely funded by the state Department of Navigation and Ocean Development.

Funds may be jeopardized if the WQCB, another state agency, throws in a monkey wrench, Yee said.

The catch, Yee said, is that the city has planned to correct the leaching problem within the marina expansion. More than $1 million has been set aside to accomplish that task.

Yee said that is scheduled to begin in six to eight months and will take another six to eight months to complete.

"We're not magicians," he said. "We can't wave our hands and say it's all done."

Yee said the city hired a consultant to study the problem in 1974 when the WQCB first became involved.

In 1975 the city invested $110,000 to build a riprap or boulder wall and install a plastic filter cloth under the rock to control possible water pollution.

The city was required by state agencies to include permanent and extensive leachate control in the marina expansion. Yee says the city has solved 95 per cent of the problems since 1974.

"In our opinion we have made significant improvements," Yee said. The agency, he said, wants 100 per cent now but the city just can't do it now.

Yee, Acting City Mgr. Frank Addiego and others told Dierker Friday that litigation won't make the city act any faster because the money to make immediate improvements is not available.

Even if a contempt of court order is issued the city would be unable to resolve the problem entirely until permanent marina facilities are constructed.

SamTrans Board Paves Way to Receive Funds

A so-called "13-C agreement" was approved by resolution by the San Mateo County Transit District Board of Directors Wednesday night, paving the way for some $7 million in federal transit grants.

The agreenent is a required formality for the federal funds and is to "protect employes affected by the grants," Legal Counsel David Miller explained.

The agreement took several months to negotiate and required three units of the Amalgamated Transit Union and some other affected unions to "sign off," District General Manager John Mauro said.

Four Urban Mass Transportation Act grants for capital equipment will be available now and a fifth, for operations, will be along soon, the board was told.

Included in planned purchases are 74 new buses, fareboxes, benches, rain shelters and a new radio communications system.

The board board met at the Pacifica City Council chamber over the sewage treatment plant. Most of its public input Wednesday was from Pacifica residents asking for return of youth fares.

In other business the board:

Heard Mauro report that tentative agreement has been reached with Greyhound Lines for district takeover of Greyhound's commute routes in San Mateo County by January, subject to approval by the state Public Utilities Commission and final SamTrans board okay in November.

Approved 5-1 a resolution backing completion of the Interstate 380 highway interchange at Bayshore Freeway to serve San Francisco International Airport. Pacifica Councilman Mark Savage voted no, saying he disagreed philosophically with building more highways in the face of future fuel shortages.

Was informed at Lowell Weight has resigned as director of finance for another job in the East Bay.

Peninsula Agencies Request Help

Seven agencies have requested help from the Volunteer Bureau-Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD — Volunteers to work in all aspects of clinic work including receptionists, counselors, clinicians, education aides and public speakers. The next training session for new volunteers is slated Tuesday and an interview is required before enrolling in training.

SUICIDE PREVENTION AND CRISIS CENTER — Persons to man the 24-hour crisis line. Orientation and training begins Nov. 6 and continues for four consecutive Saturdays. An interview is required before enrolling in training.

SAN MATEO AGENCY — Clerical workers to type, stuff envelopes, and handle general office work. Persons also needed to do sewing in their home.

PENINSULA HUMANE SOCIETY — Someone interested in advertising and commercial art to design a brochure for a special event. The shelter also needs volunteer help in the Spay and Neuter Clinics on Friday afternoons and the vet clinic and kennels in the mornings. Workers also are needed to handle clerical duties in the shelter office.

LUNG ASSOCIATION — Clerical workers to help open mail and do some auditing for the association. Any assistance is desperately needed.

AUDUBON SCHOOL — A storyteller for the library and assistants to help with tutoring and teaching.

NORTH CENTRAL NEIGHBORHOOD COUNCIL — Tutors in math, English and reading for first through eighth graders in the new King Center Tutorial Program.

More information about these and other jobs may be obtained directly through the Volunteer Bureau which is located at 119 Primrose Road, Burlingame. It is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, the bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area and, is funded in part, by the County of San Mateo.

Service News

Trained

Navy Seaman Recruit Michael D. Chodrick, 18, son of Mrs. Arlene M. Chodrick of 260 Lake Merced Blvd., Daly City, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

Schooled

Marine Private Jesus T. Poblete, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Juan P. Poblete of Wakefield Ave., Daly City, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego. He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

Marine Graduates

Marine Sgt. Robert J. Jensen, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Barnett of 246 Miriam St., Daly City, has graduated from Drill Instructor School at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

During the nine-week course, which emphasized leadership by example, Jensen gained the knowledge, command presence and instructional abilities to train newly enlisted Marines. He was required to master all subjects taught during an 11-week recruit-training cycle, including rifle marksmanship, close order drill, first aid and basic infantry tactics.

In addition to teaching these basic military subjects, Jensen will help young men become Marines by instructing them in the fundamentals of battlefield survival; by showing them how to function effectively in garrison; and by training them to instinctively practice the personal and professional traits traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He is a former student of Jefferson High School.
